MASACRSIC 1976

If a man does not keep pace
with his companions,
perhaps it is because he hears
a different drummer.
Let him step to the music
he hears,
however measured or far away.

Henry David Thoreau

I am

"The man who goes alone can start today; but he who travels with another must wait 'til that other is ready, and it may be a long time before they get off."

— Henry David Thoreau

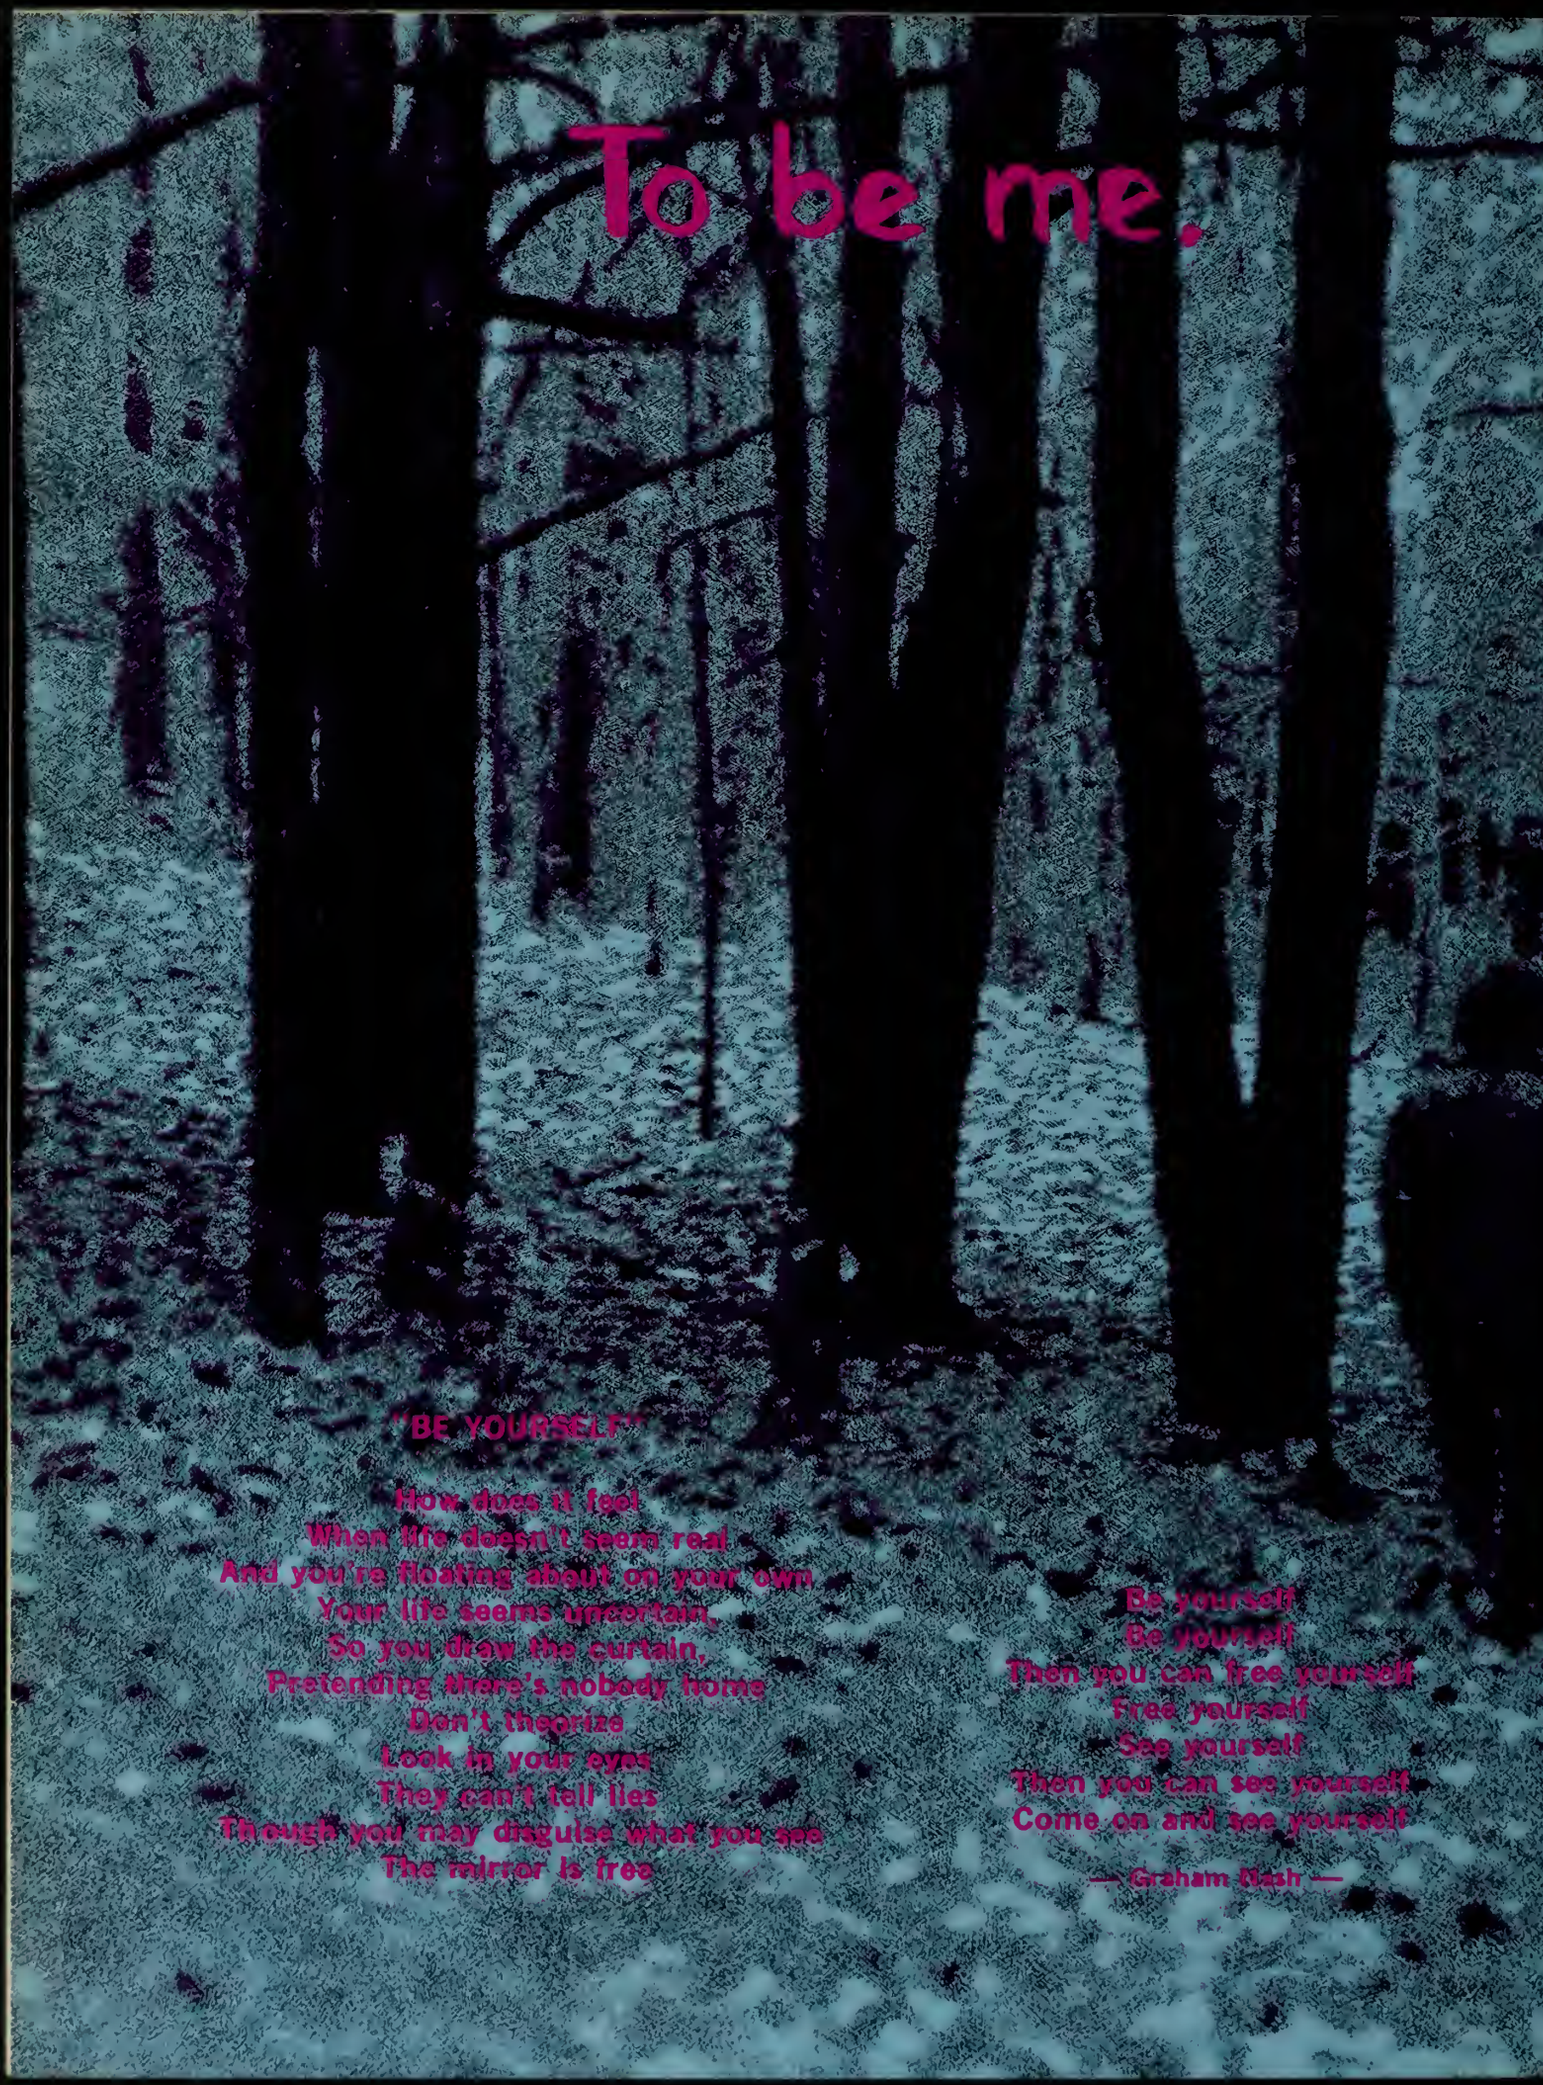
unlike anyone else.

I need freedom...

We are calling everyone to ride along to a different shore where we can be free once more.
Blues Image

One must not tie a ship to a single anchor nor life to a single hope.
Epictetus

He himself made man in the beginning, and then left him free to make his own decisions.
Ecclesiastes 15:14



"BE YOURSELF"

How does it feel
When life doesn't seem real
And you're floating about on your own
Your life seems uncertain,
So you draw the curtain,
Pretending there's nobody home
Don't theorize
Look in your eyes
They can't tell lies
Though you may disguise what you see
The mirror is free

Be yourself
Be yourself
Then you can free yourself
Free yourself
See yourself
Then you can see yourself
Come on and see yourself

— Graham Nash —

I strive...

In this world there are only two tragedies. One is not getting what one wants, and the other is getting it.

Oscar Wilde

Remember, no human condition is ever permanent, then you will not be overjoyed in good fortune, nor too sorrowful in misfortune.

Isocrates

To find life's place in me.

Two roads diverged into a wood, and I — took the one less traveled by and it has made all the difference.
Robert Frost

For all things are yours, the world or life or death or the present or the future, all are yours.
I Cor. 3:21

And in the end remember it's with you you have to live.

2:30.

Longmeadow High's student body becomes fifteen-hundred individuals with as many different opinions of what "after school" means. For some, it is time to loosen up and enjoy friends in the cafeteria or out front, but for many it means back to work — catching up on homework, seeing a teacher for extra help or to erase points, practicing for a team sport, working on a school activity, or having a job — at the Supermarket, maybe. Other people just go home.

Weekends.

After a week of Binomial Nomenclatures, Trigonometric Functions, Defend/Attack and Defining Definitions, two days to forget it all. You can scream until you are hoarse at a Basketball game, drown in carbonation and hot-fudge at Friendlys, smoke/drink/etc. yourself into a delerium at an open party . . .

For two days you can shop, be with friends, sleep, do anything — unless of course your parents have other ideas, like babysitting, cleaning your room, doing your homework . . .

"It's true that physically we're strong and energetic, and that we dance and surf and ride around on motorbikes and stay up all night while the parents shake their heads and say, 'Oh, to be young again.' What sticks in my head, though, is another image. I hear low, barely audible speech, words breathed out as if by some supreme and nearly superhuman effort. I see limp gestures and sedentary figures. Kids, sitting listening to music, sitting rapping, just sitting. Or sleeping — that most of all. Staying up late, but sleeping in later . . ."

—Looking Back

High school — Four years of learning everything you need to know to get you out of high school and into college or a job. At fourteen we are barely adolescents; by eighteen we are supposed to be adults. The time in between has got to include more than four years of English and electives. Sometimes the people who are supposed to help us seem to be more trouble than anything else. We have fights with our parents, our teachers, fights with our friends; we fall in and out of love and decide that maybe it wasn't love after all. For four years we sift through ourselves, our friends, our values — deciding what to keep and what to leave behind. We look back at yesterday and ask "Weren't we children?" while our tomorrows slide by.

"To grow is to change, and to have changed often is to have grown much."

—J.H. Newman

"Man needs others to become himself."
—Gregory Baum

nes,

I haven't seen you in a while yet I often imagine
all your expressions

I haven't spoken to you recently
but many times
I hear your thoughts

Good friends must not always be together
It is the feeling of oneness when distant that proves a lasting friendship

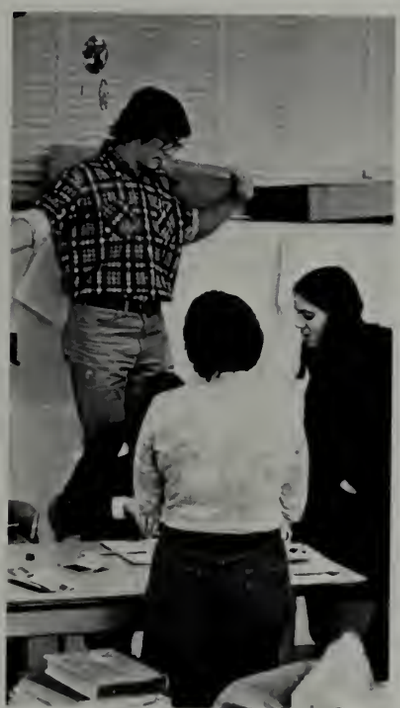
Susan Polis Schutz



"Waves in the Ocean"

We are both of us waves in the ocean, always moving and changing slightly in form.
We have rushed upon the same beach
together,
grasping at the sand and sliding back.
Waters carry me far and wide to new shores, and you too will drift.
I carry part of you, and you carry part of me.
For we have touched.
And again someday, we will pound
upon a rock or roll upon the shore, side by side.

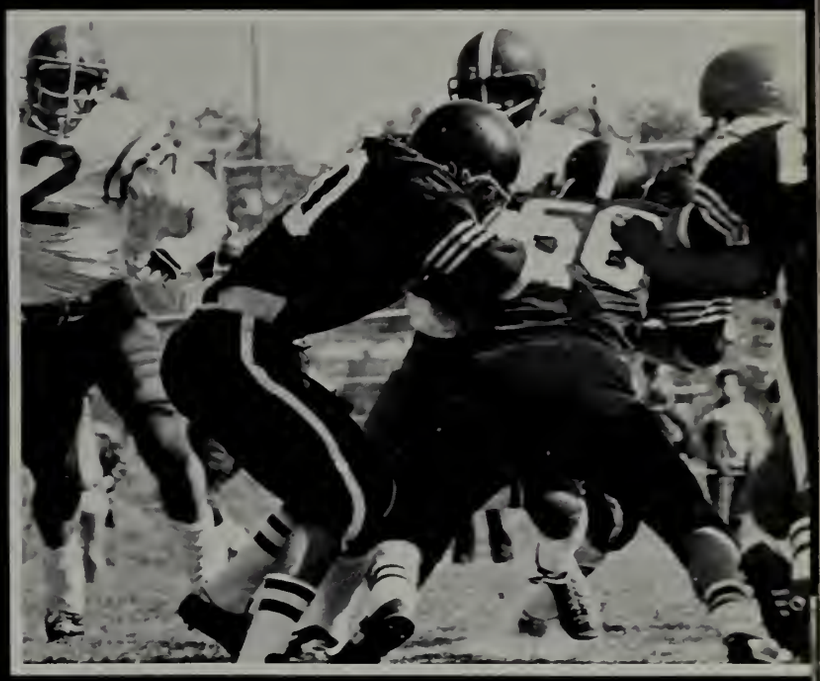
As team vs. team, Myth vs. Truth.

The glory is shared, but the shame is borne alone.

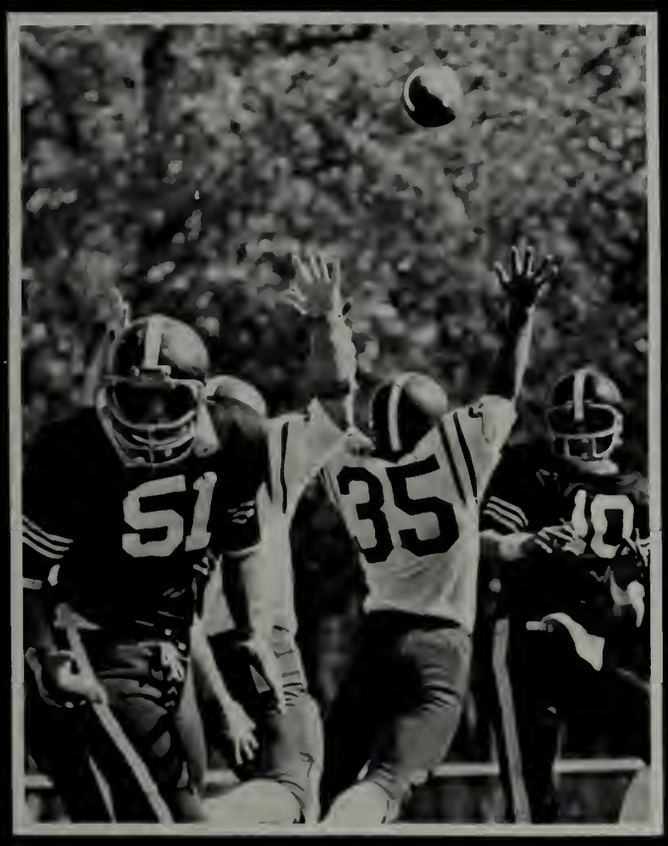
While twenty-two different men . . .

work as one for that common end . . .

TOUCHDOWN!



DEARY'S DEFENSE,



"THE BOMB."

AND TRI-CAPTAINS, MAKE

Jeff Seaman

As quarterback, Jeff saw many incomplete passes, but finished 1975 with the best passing record in the league and went over 1000 yards. He often displayed his leadership ability during practice, as top man on D row

The team joked about his ability to remember plays yet, the executions always went off well. There were a few plays he did incorporate, though, and as the season ended, the question still remained unanswered: did Seaman score better on the field or off?

Dennis Markell

Dennis was a mean player, and scouts often went home forming their offense around him. He earned some amazing statistics, including: the most assisted tackles, most overall defensive points, most caused fumbles, was a two-time big D'er, and cheerleaders' favorite.

When the going got rough, his shots got tough. He was respected by every man on the team, and most of all by Coach Deary, for his talent as a linebacker was undeniable. He was voted by his teamates defensive M.V.P. Merk's aggressive attitude was best displayed on the practice field during punts . . . just ask Peter McNally.

Jeff Pezza

This year "Pistol Pete" finally learned to keep his head up, making many more stinging tackles than last year. Not as publicized as many other defensemen, Jeff's consistent playing was a mainstay of Deary's Devils. Quiet but hard-hitting, his subtlety concealed his forceful ability.

Jeff provided more for the L.H.S. football team than just Super Crunch shirts. He led the team in unassisted tackles and possibly in swiftness. Most of all Jeff was a gentleman while he held his own in a jungle of grueling competition.

Autumn, 1975: The defense can bend but never break/the rodeo man/"Katsounakis how can you hear me way the hell over there?" Longmeadow High was sure to know whenever there was a Field Hockey game this year! One reason was the use of "spirit signs" that the members of the team wore around school all day. These signs were often an indication of their success. "Make monkeys out of Minnechaug," for example, was one slogan which came true. The Falcons had been undefeated until they faced Longmeadow. The team proved the value of getting psyched for a game. Co-Captains Mimi Carter and Leslie Maglathlin felt that the success of the team was due to the experienced coaching of Miss Darsch, and the combination of old and new talent.

Some play sports for the crowds; some play despite the crowds. L.H.S. soccer players play without the crowds. In the weary after school hours, on the "field across the street," they struggle to win a game against opponents' kicking, and Mr. Morissette's yelling. The degree of support, however, did not reflect the team's performance Off to a slow start, the L.H.S soccer team improved a great deal in just a few weeks. They ended the season in the tournament: seated twelfth, they played a fine game against the team seated first, losing by just the small margin of 4-3.

One day at practice, a member of the Girl's Soccer Club happened to be looking at the sky when she spotted a group of birds flying in a V-formation. Everyone else soon looked up and decided that these birds must have been a symbol for victory in the game against West Springfield the following day. Well, the girls didn't win that game ... but they will never forget their victories over Minnechaug! Tri-Captains Joy Hjelm, Nancy Frankel, and Paula Schnitzer should be commended for successfully running the first Girls' Soccer Club in the History of Longmeadow High!

"The Human Race"
Runners of the ages in a ceaseless marathon race have followed the roads, as an eternal stopwatch clicks away.
Bridges cross over restless waters and turn onto new roads, to be trampled by the herd.
Infinitely many paces are run, but the swiftest never holds the lead for long.
For he might miss the scenery if he did.
The roads have swelled with runners more than ever now, and some are cut off going around the curbs.
Those at the head predict a wide highway in the distance.
Has there been a change of course?
I see some runners taking their own separate paths into the woods.
Sue Chase

"LAY INTO IT!!" That's one cheer that the members of the Girls' Swim Team will never forget. During each long, exhausting practice, someone was sure to yell it out. Nor will they ever forget singing "Happy Birthday, Carol" and then hearing South Hadley repeat it.

After two "false starts " at the beginning of the season, the girls went on a victorious rampage. Tri-Captains Betsy Johnson, Carol Pelmas, and Sandy Strempel helped to enforce a new, more stringent system of practice, in the hopes of boosting morale. Although many hated the new rules, they proved to be a success in raising the spirit of the entire team.

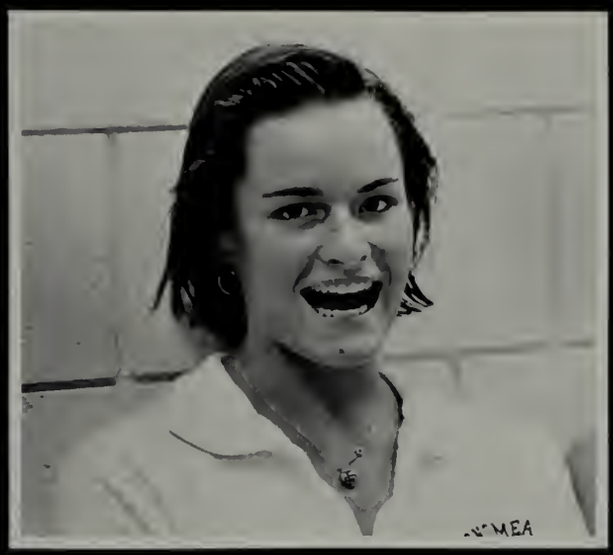
"Go straight up" . . . "Make sure your back stays arched" . . . "Point your toes" . . . "This dive better be good — if it's not I'm going to stay underwater until the scores are read " . . . "Don't look at the crowd" . . . These are some of the thoughts of Senior diver Kay Petroff as she prepares to do a back-dive in layout position.



Hey! How did you get in the girls' locker room?

Foul Shot

With two 60's stuck on the scoreboard
And two seconds hanging on the clock,
The solemn boy in the center of eyes,
Squeezed by silence,
Seeks out the line with his feet,
Soothes his hands along his uniform,
Gently drums the ball against the floor,
Then measures the waiting net,
Raises the ball on his right hand,
Balances it with his left,
Calms it with fingertips,
Breathes,
Crouches,
Waits,
And then through a stretching of stillness,
Nudges it upward.

The ball
Slides up and out,
Lands,
Leans,
Wobbles,
Wavers,
Hesitates,
Exasperates,
Plays it coy
Until every face begs with unsounding screams —

And then

And then

And then

Right before ROAR-UP
Dives down and through.

suspended between a heroic past and future.

The legendary team of 1974-75 was gone forever, leaving only two returning varsity players, Bill Mentor and Mike McGill, to lead the Lancers to the victories their reputation required. John Fenton's dependable hustling, Barry Blinn's natural spring and Dave Clark's sure shot should have combined to surpass last year's record, despite Jeff Seaman's early season injury. Yet, a new composition of players reacted to basketball with a different attitude which accounted for a lull in performance. However, the players and coaching finally pulled together to get some real hoop. Greatly improved Dave Finestone and Bird-dog provided necessary back-up and late season spirit brought the team to eventual success.

The '75-'76 season opened without a great deal of optimism among the members of the Lancer wrestling team. With four returning seniors and only two juniors, the biggest problem seemed to be inexperience. In addition, it looked as though Doodles' broken wrist would keep him away from the wrestling team; however, he rejoined at mid-season and had an undefeated record after five matches.

With the policy change, scheduling matches only on Saturdays, the Lancer wrestlers faced a tougher schedule than that of last year. The team went through six dismaying losses before managing to overcome Pittsfield. Several wrestlers competed in the W. Mass. sectionals but it was clearly a year of rebuilding, with the promise of greater things to come. The large number of enthusiastic freshmen along with talented sophomores and juniors provided hope that the Longmeadow team will become one of the stronger teams in the region in the next few years.

Breakfast at Abdow's or Mary Jo's ... lunch at Miss Darsch's ... dinner at Marietta's ... Are these meetings of a gourmet eating club? No, they happen to be some of the off-court activities of this year's Girls' Basketball Team! In spite of their high caloric intake, the girls managed to maintain a good record throughout the season. They started out with a few losses, but Coach Darsch soon "hammered" out most of their problems. Significant improvement resulted, and the fans witnessed a progressively higher quality game each Tuesday and Friday.

Solitary competition against silence and nerves . . .

With almost all of last year's members returning, the Lancer gymnasts had high hopes for a strong, experienced team. Led by a lone senior and a large group of talented juniors, this year's boys gymnastic team was termed "the best team in L.H.S. history," by Coach Kober. The three win, five loss record was deceiving, as several losses were by less than one point and there were many outstanding individual performances. Senior Captain Eric Michelman set a new school record in parallel bars, Bart Dunlevy broke the floor-ex record, Craig Cloud attained an 8.25 in vaulting, and Longmeadow sent Dunlevy and Jim Bradford to states.

Losing only one man this year and helped by the return of two injured ring men, the Longmeadow gymnasts look forward to another excellent season next winter, possibly becoming a W. Mass power.

. . . with control and strength

The gym is filled to capacity, yet the crowd remains unusually silent. Even the rowdiest bunch of fans from the preceding night's basketball game sit quietly, mesmerized by the one lone performer on the mat, beam, unevens, or horse. The crowd's anxiety is only surpassed by the intense concentration of the gymnast as she performs her routine.

She is alone . . . but not lonely. Each individual seeks a unique yet common goal: the glory of success.

There are parts of a ship which taken by themselves would sink. The propeller would sink. The engine would sink. But when the parts of a ship are built together, they float. So with the members of a team. Each taken by themselves would fail. But when talent and effort are combined into a common goal, which is wanted badly enough, the only possible result is success.

"So that's the butterfly?"

With the loss of several key performers from last year's Western Mass runner-up team, Longmeadow was not expected to be a power in this season's schedule. Swimming in the state's most powerful conference, Western Mass Division I, Longmeadow more than held its own in finishing the season's dual meet schedule with a record of six wins and seven losses. Many of the dual meet losses went down to the last event and Longmeadow more than held its own against traditional powerhouses Cathedral and East Longmeadow.

Longmeadow was led by two senior swimmers, Jeff Glaser and Bill Skelley, who dominated their specialties in Western Mass and State Meet competition. Glaser is the present defending State Champion in the backstroke and Skelley will be the odds on favorite for this year's State breaststroke championship. Other standouts for the Lancers this season include seniors Tim Walsh, Bill Gasque, and Glen Bassett. Heading the list of younger Longmeadow performers were George Pincus, John Bonnell, Dave Lendry, and Louis Midura.

With a squad that numbered over forty and with a large number of these swimmers returning next year Longmeadow's swimming fortune will definitely be on the rise for next year.

The hockey season opened with a big win and soon experienced big losses: Bomber rose to the Olympics, South broke his nose, Vinny succumbed to a bad leg, and Bill Shenas quit on principle. Consequently, the team was left with only four seniors: Tim Janik, Jim Durocher, Roger Meskus, and Gregg DiBiaso. Unsteady goal tending was topped off by a surge of mid-season illness which immobilized most of the first string players. Freshman Jack Dineen is the "sun on the horizon," and Jeff Sisitsky's senior year has yet to test his ultimate potential. With too many Job-like trials to overcome, the earnest and talented hockey players turned tragically into the Ice Capades once they reached the Coliseum.

Do you enjoy waking up at the crack of dawn every morning? Do you love to walk around school with soaking, squeeky shoes after traipsing through the dew on the football field? Do you like arriving at school, even before the teachers, only to find out that it is a snowday? If you have answered "yes" to any of the above questions, then the Longmeadow High School Drill Team is the sport for you!

For thirty girls, this is the way they show their school spirit, and have fun at the same time. Their early morning practices often prove to be rather comical, with Mrs. Miller steadily beating on her tambourine, and the team singing "Behind Closed Doors" to her.

Years from now, when they look upon their drill team experience, the girls will forget their sleepy eyes and tired feet and will remember the friendships they shared and the good times they had.

Michael Karcz is alone a lot . . . but in his solitude he has cultivated incomparable companionship. Known as "the drummer", Mike goes much deeper and can boast an identity to be proud of.

While many of his peers were lost in sixth grade confusion and adolescence, Mike discovered the drums. "As it turned out, when I was truly starting to form into a person, I wasn't that social. Drums came in handy." Beginning slowly, Mike's devotion drew out his innate talent, and he practiced more intensely during high school. Averaging three hours a day, Mike began attending the Springfield Conservatory of Music.

There are rewards to such fidelity. Mike has received two college scholarships, as well as procuring positions in All District, All State, and All Eastern U.S. music competitions. He is also a member of the national orchestra American Youth Performs and the Mass. Young People's Symphony. Recently, Mike became a substitute for the Springfield Symphony Orchestra, and he has been conducted by Robert Gutter and Arthur Fiedler. This fall, L.H.S. learned that it could proudly send Mike to play in the Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade and the Tournament of Roses Parade with the MacDonald All-American High School Band.

Mike is respected for his diligence and ability by all who know of him. As Rod McKuen said, "Most people think a loner is lonely, but it's really not wanting to put all your marbles in one pocket.

Key Club's able President, Jeff Heitmann.

The Key Club has been very successful since its incorporation as a service organization in 1964. During these years, active members have created and participated in fund raising activities such as the Blood Bank, the Bounce-a-Thon, and canned goods for Toys for Joy.

This year, as always, Key Club events have proved to be entertaining and worthwhile. In December, they held a rowdy assembly starring Groucho Marx and the notorious Steve Abdow as Santa Claus. This benefited Toys for Tots. They also worked on a massive cam- and the former house of Thorton Burgess.

Longmeadow High School owes deep appreciation to our Key Club, its members, and advisor Roger LeBlanc. They merit the awards and citations they receive each year, for their activities reinforce the fact that people do care and are willing to be involved.

Two typical Key Club members get down to business in their usual fashion at a meeting.

Key Club members such as Johnny McCosker worked at home football games by ushering, selling refreshments, or guarding the gates.

"Walk together, talk together, all you people of the earth, for then and only then will there be peace."

The American Field Service program brings two foreign students into Longmeadow each year to live with an American family, attend high school, and experience our way of life. In addition, a student from this school is sent abroad to one of fifty participating countries. Liliana Savino from Argentina is living with Melinda Jakobek and her family, and Mary Skerrett is living with Jim and Paul Stewart and their family. Sue Chase, who received last year's scholarship, spent the summer of '75 in Bombay India. This year the two candidates are Karl Huck and Betsy Stephen. The annual need of $3500 is raised by club activities (calendar sales, A.F.S. Fair, international dinner, etc ...) and contributions by Longmeadow residents. Aside from "money projects", the club organizes fun activities for the A.F.S. weekends, during which, club members host and entertain foreign students from other communities.

The JET JOTTER

Jet Jotter, our official high school newspaper, is a product of the creativity, diligence, and effort of many students and their advisors.

The Jet Jotter is rated highly among other high school papers. Last year, it was appraised as third overall by the AIC press convention. This year it seems destined to win more.

Under the strong hand of Managing Editor Garth Janes, the Jet Jotter put out some excellent issues, with stories ranging from old age to teenage alcoholism to open door.

Mrs. Minichiello serves as Outlet advisor.

Outlet is an annual Longmeadow High School publication which consists of creative and original poetry, writings, and artwork. Students who wish to submit work do so through members of the Outlet staff, by placing it in specific Outlet boxes which are placed around the school, through their teachers, and to the Outlet room.

This year, approximately 75 students submitted work to Outlet. Judges, who are members of the Outlet staff, spend 5 to 6 hours per week reading and studying what they have received, choosing selectively writings and art which will go into the book. Those students whose work appears in Outlet deserve great credit for they have displayed both imagination and ability.

ANGRY EYES

Early this fall several students wrote and published an alternative newspaper entitled ANGRY EYES. These students included Richard Castagna, Jeffrey Mann, Bill Mentor, Eileen Taylor, Kevin Taylor, Kim Barton, Julie Fein, and Mary Ann Benoit. They hoped to enliven the interests of LHS students by writing on topics. activities, and issues which they felt were no being adequately covered by the high school newspaper. Their articles ranged from Open Door, to the question of class dues, to community activities, especially concerts. Sports were not emphasized at all.

Due to a lack of funds, Angry Eyes was not published for several months. However, they planned to reappear in late December or early January, as well as during winter and spring. They raised funds through a tag sale in order to continue the paper.

Angry Eyes is an important example of free expression,and the ability of several individuals to develop, create, and make their ideas known. The students who helped and participated in this publication deserve to be recognized and commended for their incentive and ambition in creating their paper.

Linda Sachsse, President of National Honor Society.

National Honor Society, a club which is comprised of students of excellent academic standing, takes part in several activities which serve the school and its members. They also raise money in order to grant a NHS student a scholarship.

This year, NHS has continued its tutoring program and has also initiated several new programs. Members tutor between 35 and 40 students. Students may request tutors themselves or teachers may ask for aid. New programs include work with the History Dept. and Bookstore.

The 200th Fourth of July! And we were there. With Jefferson and Adams (they both died on the same day, the 50th Fourth of July), we relived the past, examined the present, and probed the future. It was magic. It was The Grassy Gutter Players and "The Great American Fourth of July Parade" by Archibald MacLeish. It was a great production performed by a cast of faculty and students.

As the United States of America celebrates its two hundredth year of independence, we recognize the potential each of us at Longmeadow High School has to assert himself. Within the structure of our society there are certain laws that people must follow; but within such limitations there are innumerable choices and the freedom of self-direction. Each student in this school is seeking a direction best suited for him, and each teacher presents the various possibilities for the future.

It is diversity that makes life ever changing. Some people are leaders; some are followers. We are educators; we are learners. There are those who rebel against the system; there are those who support the system. Therefore, we, the editors, dedicate the 1976 Masacksic to everyone at Longmeadow High School: to those who have found their unique place in life, to those who are striving to find it, to those who are helping others to find it, and to those who have yet to free themselves from conformity.

Some people would rather "Fight than switch;" not so Mr. Angelo Teixeira. Last year "Tex" assumed the role of principal, while Mr. Craver was on sabbatical leave. Although extremely challenging and requiring more responsibility, the job as principal offered many rewards. For one thing, Mr. Teixeira was able to understand the overall functions and problems of the school. Also as principal, he established a closer rapport with all of the faculty and staff.

To look at the demure, fragile appearance of Mrs. Thoma Miller, one would never dream that beneath that docile facade lies the latent talents of a superior athlete. Last year this "jockette" tried skiing and had much fun. When asked if she fell very much, she said, "Yes, but I got myself up, brushed myself off, and fell again!" This many-sided athlete not only skis but is an avid tennis player; "I love to play, it's my favorite sport." She is also interested in hiking and bicycling. However, we can not leave out her track record; no one else can beat her. She chases after every student that gets a point. Now who runs more than that!

The library is one of the most important and most used facilities in Longmeadow High School. Run by Miss Margery Baird, the library is in constant use. The major problem they have now, stated Miss Baird, is the "loss" of books and magazines. Ladies are on "the watch" now every block to see that books are not stolen. This way of handling the problem was explained as "unfortunate, but necessary."

A recent addition to the school has been the T.V. studio. This expansion of the audio visual program is beneficial for new teaching techniques. More students and faculty are making use of the equipment which pleases Merrill Oltchick. The sixteen involved A.V. students work as projectionists, graphic and photographic technicians and television personnel.

I am here for your enlightenment.

How do I feel about students? I am both amazed at their dedication and appalled by their apathy! These feelings, of course, apply to different sectors of the student body.

I have the distinct advantage of coming in direct contact with more students daily than any other member of the faculty, and I feel sure that the majority of the students, especially the upperclassmen, are citizens Longmeadow can be proud of. You have to know the youth of today to appreciate them, and I do.

Dorothy Reed

Two years ago, L.H.S. began to acknowledge the many students who chose to seek employment immediately after graduation. Providing a necessary head start in the work world, the Co-op program, guided by Mr. Dan Kane, enables students to combine the completion of their requirements for graduation with practical experience.

. . . a communicator,

Individuality to me is the ability to be aware of, to have faith in and the courage to act from your own internal convictions, whether or not these convictions jibe with the surrounding society.

Sue Broderick

Individuality to paraphrase Emerson, is following one's own beliefs in the midst of a crowd: refusing a cigarette or a drink when everyone is smoking or drinking, refusing to sign a petition opposing A.B.C. when all of your neighbors have signed it, supporting the Equal Rights Amendment for women when you're with a group of male chauvinists.

Eve Dolgin

The English curriculum at Longmeadow High is designed in part to teach students to write by the rules of grammar and specific literary techniques. This does not mean that the English teachers themselves conform to any definite image. They are as diverse as the students in this school. Each has his or her own interests, abilities and ways of fulfilling himself or herself as a person.

... Thoughts on arrival ...

I've found that L.H.S. has a friendly and stimulating atmosphere. Everyone in the Foreign Language Department, the other faculty, and the administration have shown an interest in new teachers and have always been very accessible ...

I was pleasantly surprised by the freedom given to teachers. The fact that "individualizing" is promoted here amazed me. Since this is my "rookie" year out of undergraduate school, I was not expecting to find that educational theory and practice were so closely related. Here, the new thinking isn't only put into practice, but new ideas are always being considered and welcomed ... I'm very happy and excited about my first year of teaching ...

Mathematics is not easily grasped by everyone; but those who persue the challenges find it to be a welcomed change of pace from most "writing" subjects. Math deals with the abstract while languages, History, and Science, work with the concrete. I enjoy teaching and I like the opportunities it offers, to pursue studies in the social sciences, which I enjoy anyway. Many students challenge the need for two years of U.S. History. Longmeadow High is one of the few schools which has such a requirement; but it is also one of the rare ones which offers courses on Asian Civilization, European History, African Cultures, and other social sciences. In today's world, international policy is a vital factor in our existence; therefore knowledge of other societies is invaluable. To understand others we must first have a clear conception of ourselves. And how can we possibly know where we're going if we don't know where we've been?

Here comes the center; he passes off to the wing; he shoots; he scores! Satisfaction for a hockey coach! At L.H.S. we have one of the finest coaches, Ray Suzor. "I've been playing the sport of hockey for twenty-five years; now, coaching is an extention of playing the game. It is also a challenge and an opportunity to develop students in important ways outside the classroom. It gives teacher and student a common interest and better understanding of one another. I really enjoy the game, particularly the creativity and speed that is missing in other sports. It is also enjoyable due to the satisfaction a coach gets from accomplishing a great deal with young people: team attitudes, physical development, skills, and winning a contest that we have worked hard together to prepare for." All teams like to win but coach Suzor has a special type of winning. Winning equals working hard, putting together a successful team effort, and making an interesting game to watch for someone who knows the sport. Of course it is nice to be rewarded for your efforts by having a "scoreboard win" as well.

The relevance of Basic Tech is somewhat a function of the student's goal in life. If the student is going to be career oriented upon graduation from high school, Basic Tech serves to acquaint him or her with career options in relationship to interests, aptitudes and achievements. If the student is destined for a more liberal education, the relevance lies in the reduction of his or her ultimate technical illiteracy.

One of the fastest growing clubs at Longmeadow High School today is Keyettes. This service organization, led by Virginia Hogan and Margery Baird is on its way to meeting the standards set by their rival, Key Club. Mrs. Hogan has now been the club's advisor for four years. For me, coaching is a very rewarding experience. It's a lot of work, thought, and time, but well worth it. I enjoy working with young athletes who have the desire to excell and compete, especially the young ladies here at Longmeadow High School. They are super people, as well as competitors. We strive to reach our utmost capabilties as individuals and as a team: to work together, to be all you can. No one can ask for more. Learning from mistakes, playing our best, team work, desire, and hard work combine to create the essence of an athlete.

September rolled around and so did I — slowly — back to school — first and last blocks off — elective gym classes — getting the car for school — finally an upperclassman — the varsity game — McDonalds during all three lunches — heartbreak — class debates — chemistry — dropouts — college — Jr. Prom. Being interested in school work is no longer "bush". As juniors we feel free to step over boundaries — to strike up old friendships — to stay home or go out on a Saturday night. A TEST OF EDU

I AM A SOPHOMORE

Paul Schnitzer
President

Jenny Swan
V. President

September came again and so did I. I was a Sophomore. I stepped up in status. I was above the line that separated Freshmen from the depths of the student body. I was no longer on the outside looking in, but rather, drowning in high school life. I am a Sophomore — should I act silly? — Should I act serious? — Should I go out for cheerleading? A Sophomore: sixteen — old enough — drinking — football games — geometry — Catcher in the Rye — talk/quiet study halls — Monday lectures. Sophomores are accepted — in a way. No longer freshmen, but not upperclassmen, Sophomores have almost won the battle to be recognized. For most of us, the year is non-descript. For some it is a brilliant gem, bittersweet in its combination of innocence and experience. We encounter experiences that will force us to establish our values. But why can't we have open door?

I AM A FRESHMAN

Linda Schupack
President

Glenn Goodman
V. President

September began and I stepped from one life to another. I became a freshman and I knew my questions would never be the same again — they would become unanswerable. I became a freshman — the kids were all so big — homeroom after first block — gang wars — brass knuckles — I became a Frosh. I liked art (couldn't wait for Jewelry II) — I liked sports (couldn't wait for varsity) — I liked English (someday . . Mr. Lopes). Freshman year marks the end of being a child — but some Frosh live youngly while others live oldly. Freshmen, as small as we may seem to Seniors, must face the burdens of an adult. When we arrive at the high school, some of us see that stereotypes and cliques and sharp divisions are a reality. Some of us long to become Seniors; some of us long to be in the first grade again; most of us long for a little of both.

Once again, the Longmeadow Lacrosse team came through with a fantastic season's record. After losing many key players, the Lancers unified into a strong firing group with alot of depth. Proof of this was shown in the Kingswood game, when they came from behind to be the victors by six points. New offensive and defensive plays were directed by Coach Stockwell, who worked hard throughout the season, to keep the team up to its excellent past standards. The team was a product of outstanding scoring from Jeff Figgie and Jeff Seaman, a strong defense by Dave Landers, John Fenton, Ned McNally, and John Bridge, with support from midfielders John Sullivan, Craig Cloud, and Bill McClure. The attitudes of the boys never let up, so they constantly worked on their opponents in efforts that were the basis of their success. The victories of such challenging games as Hall High, Hotchkiss, and Wilton gave the Lancers th well-deserved confidence they needed to beat Brookline at the State Championship game, held here in Longmeadow.

Coach Bill Kirkpatrick said, "It was the early morning practices and working together as a team that proved successful for boys' tennis." Despite the loss of its number one player, the Lancers' spirit remained high and the team continued its winning ways throughout the season. Senior captains Chris Ferrero and Bob Ditomassi led a team made up largely of underclassmen. With many returning players, boys' tennis can expect another good season next year.

Go! Fight! Win! That was the motto of the 1976 girl's tennis team. As early as March coach Littlefield began practice indoors, where she selected her best doubles and singles combinations. Senior captain Lauri Smith helped to make a cohesive team, adding spirit and high morale. Sophomore Jean Benoit and Freshmen Melissa Lincoln and Cindy Rubin were some of the players who will help to continue the trends of success in the future. Accomplishment was achieved through hard work, concentration, and favorable attitudes. The girls had a strong interest in the game and participated throughout the season as a unified team. Competition within the team was keen this year, leading to superior play level and a winning season.

This year saw a disappointing season for the baseball team, who won only 6 games and lost 14. Although there was plenty of talent among the individual players, the team failed to get it together to prevent several one-run defeats. Nevertheless, seniors Steve Hurwitz and Eric Michaelman played well for the team, as did junior Steve O'Connor and freshman Peter Kumiega. Once again the team regrets the loss of seniors, but next year's starters, who will include Peter Kumiega, Steve O'Connor, James Blakeman, and Bob Kellogg, keep hopes as high as ever for a successful season next year.

The 1976 softball team "handled" their way into the Girl's Western Mass. Tournament. By being "CHAMPIONS" of their league, they earned the right to receive jackets which were thought of long ago. Under the stern rule of "THE SARGEANT", the Lancerettes managed to have a little fun. Consistent pitching by Co-Captain Betsy Johnson was one of the many goals reached by the entire team. There were many games when Darsch's girls came from behind to spook their opponents, a positive change from the past years. This year, Longmeadow beat their arch-rivals; Agawam, their second time around. There was probably nothing else that the Lancers wanted more than to get back at them. Seniors Sue Kimball and Betsy Johnson, moving on to the college scene, will be missed greatly, but will be remembered in the hearts of the team. Without them the season would never have been the success that it was.

6 wins 4 losses

After weeks of grueling practice and drilling by their coach "Jumping Joe" Winseck, the boys' track team came through with a 6-4 record and third place in the league. Their success was due largely to talented stars, while a lack of depth was felt in some areas. Steve Urdanoff's winning mile, and the equal efforts of Tom Tripp, Tom Hirsh, Jeff Pezza, Rob Sears, Ron Sarver, Phil Miller, and a record-breaking javeln thrower Brian Mahon, among others, helped give the team the strength it needed for six victories.

Webber, Coach Williams, Coach Winseck.

Mixed thoughts; Jodie Chase poised with her favorite javelin and Joy Hjelm thinking about her next discus throw. TO THE FAR RIGHT: Captains Cindy Hoar and Sue Cartwright take a break between events.

Another successful season passed for the girls' track team under the leadership of coach Linda Segur. They had 6 victories and only 2 defeats — a tribute to a good amount of depth on the team as well as to the remarkable star members who set several new school records. Some outstanding seniors who will be missed next year are Julie Vangsness, Shelly Robbins, Kay Petroff, Joy Hjelm, and co-captains Cindy Hoar and Sue Cartwright. The team finished a close second in their league this year and holds even higher hopes for next year. Strong underclassmen, like freshman miler Sue Hopfe, will help keep up the constant improvement of the team.

L. TO R.: J. McCosker, R. Durocher, J. Creed, F. Simanski (coach), B. Canavan, J. Klug, D. Butts.

Although the golf team started off its season with a bit of inconsistency and inexperience, the players overcame their lack of depth and began to work together for a successful season. Coach Simanski found that as time progressed, the home advantage and the improvement of the players gave the team what it needed. Outstanding high scorers included John Creed and John McCosker, who continuously played well. Brendy Canavan seemed to be the most improved individual and Rick Durocher opened up as one of the bright spots for the future.

OF THEE I SING

One of the longest and most difficult productions ever undertaken at LHS, OF THEE I SING, turned out to be one of the most successful, too. The show was a challenge both dramatically and musically, but under the direction of Mr. Burkle, Mr. Thomsen, and Mr. Grant, it became an inspiring piece of light spring theater. Jack Goldberg and Sheryl Odentz starred as President and Mrs. John P. Wintergreen, with Philip O'Reilly as the committee chairman. The seniors who livened up the show included Meridith Wagner (Southern vamp), Bill Pratt (orator), Danny Vorenberg (slick politician), Carol Jaskot (dancing secretary), Jim Bliss (Chief Justice), and Connie Murphy (Senate clerk). Credit for this achievement goes to every cast and crew member. They combined talents to the delight of the audience and the pride of the entire school.

Seminar Day V

Seminar Day was held at L.H.S. for the fifth consecutive year under the direction of Debbie Lachman, Peggy Yacovone and Peter Vangsness. The attendance was not as satisfactory as in previous years, but the seminars were very successful. Some of the activities were: transcendental meditation, a sports talk with Kevin Kelly, Banjos 'n Brass, and a slide show of Red China. The highlight of the day was an exhibition by the Pioneer Valley Gymnastics School.

Variety '76

Variety '76, sponsored by Key Club and the Freshmen class was an exciting event in March. The show was put on two nights and featured such acts as Tito and the Tigers, Dueling Pianos, and Larry Eagan's magic act. Any person interested in participating in this activity was included in the show. Peter McNally, Jeff Burnett and Linda Shupack were the chairpersons responsible for putting the Variety Show together, and making it such a success. This program is an annual one, and planning and work will again begin in October for Variety '77.

In May, all vocal groups and the concert band participated in the annual Spring concert, called the "Spring Thing" this year. The seniors as well as the other performers, put their best effort into their final concert to come through with an outstanding program.

One of the enjoyable events held in April was the Chamber Music Concert. Selected groups and individuals played for the large attending audience. The concert took place in the library in order to make the evening a bit more intimate. Mr. Burkle organized the show while such groups as Les Chanteuses and I Cantori performed magnificently. The woodwind quintet and the saxophone, horn, and string quartets were other highlights of the show which greatly deserved the enthusiastic applause.

The effort that went into the Pops Concert this year was extremely worthwhile, because the results were fantastic. Many felt that such acts from the Jesters, concert band, wind ensemble, and lyrics led to the best possible show. Mr. Burkle and Mr. Thomsen, the coordinators of the concert, were two of the hard working contributors to the success. A welcome additon was Cheryl McCray, Wayne Kelley, and Steven Boyd, who danced to "the Whiz." This, along with the drum performances from Gary Fieldman and Mike Karcz were very popular. Finally, the fifties ensemble sang "In My Room" and "Breaking Up is Hard to do," ending this well rounded show.

Something
beautiful and rare

hovered there in precious pulse-beat time —
and then . . .
slipped suddenly away

Frost Gets Snowed In June

... high point of the Senior Banquet ... a "no school" award presented to Dr. Philip Frost, Superintendent of Schools for Longmeadow ... the award, a bag-full of "snow" judiciously bequeathed upon Dr. Frost by Eric Michelman, co-master of ceremonies ... quipped the good-natured Dr., " ... not the first time I have been snowed by the Class of 1976" ... once again, yearbook mania reigned as voracious seniors abandoned their roast beef au jus for a copy of Masacksic ... not that the rain dampened anyone's appetite ... delicious dinner ... at many tables, six people ate eight meals (with a little slight-of-tongue) ... except for those bound for UMass who lost their appetites when they learned that "Tex" was to be one of their classmates ... ironies abounded ... the "Class Partyer" headed for West Point ... soggy shoes to get dry for the Prom.

"We May Never Pass This Way Again"

June 2, 1976

Featuring: Forest

WE MAY NEVER PASS THIS WAY AGAIN

Life—so they say
Is but a game and they let it slip away
Love—like the Autumn sun
Should be dying but it's only just begun
Like the twilight in the road up ahead
They don't see just where we're goin'
And all the secrets in the universe
Whisper in our ears and all the years will come and go
And take us up, always up
WE MAY NEVER PASS THIS WAY AGAIN

Dreams—so they say
Are for the fools and they let them drift away
Peace—like the silent dove
Should be flyin' but it's only just begun
Like Columbus in the olden days
We must gather all our courage
Sail our ship out on the open sea
Cast away our fears and all the years will come and go
And take us up—always up
WE MAY NEVER PASS THIS WAY AGAIN

So I wanna laugh while the laughin' is easy
I wanna cry if it makes it worthwhile
I may never pass this way again
That's why I want it with you
'Cause you make me feel like I'm more than a friend
I may never pass this way again
That's why I want it with you baby
WE MAY NEVER PASS THIS WAY AGAIN

Time Is Was
And What A Time It Was
It Was
A Time Of Innocence
A Time Of Confidences
Long Ago It Must Be

I Have A Photograph
Preserve Your Memories
It's All That's Left You
